In Scotland today only 2.9% of rapes recorded by police lead to a conviction. Research has highlighted consistently and alarmingly a range of prejudicial attitudes held by the public, which blame women for being victimised and attribute the assault in whole or in part to some aspect of their demeanour or behaviour.

Find out more about these attitudes and how to raise awareness of this issue at www.thisisnotaninvitationtorapeme.co.uk
